

FIG Seminar
e-Land Administration
Innsbruck/Austria
Report

FIG Commission 7

Weather was expected like

FIG Commission 7

but occurred like

FIG Commission 7

Number of participants was expected....

35 - 40

FIG Commission 7

was in fact

115 from more than 35 countries

Main topics of papers

- ã impact of e-government to surveyors
 - ã national e-government models
- ã PPP-models for e-land administration
 - ã e- conveyancing
 - ã archives for e-government
 - ã open web-services
 - ã cadastral automation

Conclusions

output side

- better transparency for real-estate market
 - improvement of B2B activities
 - single window solutions for customers
 - more value-added products feasible
- new business and pricing models to be developed

Conclusions

input side

- various models already existing
 - e-conveyancing
 - e-registration
 - e-lodgement
- simplifying chains of titles
- quicker transfer of purchase prices

Conclusions

throughput

- enables workflow management
- easy access to digital archives
- fully automated updating
- involvement of customers into procedures

Conclusions

visible links

- e-Land Administration and SDI
 - single window-solutions
 - more customer satisfaction
 - value added products
 - better PPP
- increase of return of investments

e-Land Administration

- involves stakeholders
- enhances new technologies for cadastre
 - opens contribution to land policy
 - lays paths to new legislation
- enables re-engineering of IT and workflows
 - opens doors for new structures and reskilling

FIG Commission 7

Proceedings

Copies available from Gerda

Commission 7 Annual Meeting 2004
Clermont-Ferrand/France

G. Schennach, Austria

Austrian Society for Surveying and Geoinformation

